Virology Dossier #1: From the figure of the plague victim to the criminalization of life

We live under the reign of a centuries-old dogma, a framework for understanding so deeply ingrained in our minds that it seems natural, almost biological. This dogma revolves around a simplistic equation that we have all internalized:

(https://reseauinternational.net/mentions-legales/)

Symptom → Invisible pathogen → Transmission → Guilt and dangerousness of the patient → Isolation rules

Then, in industrial terms:

Pathogen → Sequencing → Patent → Mass screening → Vaccine or Targeted treatment

This mechanism did not emerge by chance. It is based on a very old anthropological fear, formalized in the 19th century when medicine shifted from a global observation of health (the terrain, the environment, hygiene, nutrition) towards a reductionist and warlike vision of life: the germ theory.

While the initial intention may have seemed noble (protecting populations), this paradigm has become rigid, evolving into a pseudo-scientific construct. Even more seriously, it has become the driving force behind a major legal and societal transformation: the criminalization of the sick or the unvaccinated.

This video lays the groundwork for a series of investigations. Our objective is clear: to provide everyone, step by step, with the methodological and scientific tools to deconstruct this dogma and demonstrate the systematic lack of respect for the scientific method in modern virology and its political and industrial applications.

If infection is considered a dogma, this raises many questions. For example, Semmelweis is credited with drastically reducing puerperal fever through handwashing. If this is true, how can it be explained without invoking pathogens and transmission? And how is it possible to write countless scientific articles about something that doesn't exist?

I don't believe the author denies the existence of infection and epidemics caused by pathogens, but rather the germ theory, which would imply external pathogens in all cases. It's well known that the development of aseptic techniques in maternity wards has drastically reduced puerperal fever.

…because we are mistaken about the origin of so-called “infectious” diseases; in fact, these are a true poisoning caused by the decomposition products of dead matter and perhaps even by the toxins secreted by molds (mycotoxins), which also contribute to this decomposition, as do so-called “pathogenic” bacteria, which are actually scavengers, digesting rotting organic matter and therefore very useful in maintaining the balance of the environment! (Without molds and bacteria, imagine we would be engulfed by garbage in the broadest sense: just look at what happens in a compost bin…) In my opinion, mycology has a bright future, because it is rarely invoked, except to say that “antibiotics” were initially isolated from soil molds…

Les religieux sont coutumier d’écrire les tomes de milliers de pages sur ce qui n’existe pas tandis que les romanciers et les poètes mettent un avertissement dans la présentation de leur oeuvre. Le corps est un milieu fermé et bien protégé contre l’environnement, la moindre ouverture, le moindre défaut dans la protection, met sa structure interne en contact direct avec cet environnement, les mains apportent directement des toxines, poisons et parasites qui vont agir et se développer s’ils trouvent les conditions favorables. Ces médecins qui empoisonnaient leurs patients ne sont pas morts des toxines qui couvraient leurs mains, ou alors si peu qu’ils ne se sont aperçus de rien. Ainsi ils forment une confrérie qui a plusieurs milliers d’années d’existence sans avoir jamais souffert de leurs erreurs et mauvaises pratiques.

Je pense que Big Pharma a tout fait pour faire gober aux citoyens du monde que les infections ont un pathogène transmissible.

Il est possible que certains le soient mais ce n'est pascune généralité.

Ce monsieur est plus que dans le vrai.

Cela débute bien avant l'existence de bigfarma, Molière en parle mais cela s'est vraiment développé à partir du néolithique grâce à l'invention de l'élevage et de l'agriculture qui ont permis aux conteurs et diseurs de bonne aventure de vivre au crochet des producteurs de biens matériels.

A propos du SIDA , ne croyez pas que le test sert à déceler un virus .
Pas du tout !
Un potentiel sidaïque subit un premier tet qui consiste à dénombrer vos lymphocytes T4 et si ce nombre est insuffisant , on vous fait subir un second test qui consiste à savoir si vous présentez dans votre organisme un certain nombre (de 3 à 5 suivant les pays où ce test est pratiqué) de protéïnes prétendûment caractéristiques d'un SIDA . Ce qui fait que dans certains pays on vous décétera sidaïque et pas dans d'autres .
Et c'est tout !
En fait les premiers sidaïques ont été traités par des doses massives d'AZT molécule interdite dès les années 1960 et qui est un puissant anticellulaire , puis devant l'hécatombe par des doses massives d'antiviraux qui tuèrent moins vite , mais tuèrent en masse tout de même . Et la trithérapie qui consiste en une semaine de l'AZT à dose infinitésimale , une deuxième semaine des anti viraux à sont des homos masculins) dose infinitésimale , puis une troisième semaine sans traitement est juste moins nocive , mais ne soigne pas .
Pour les dissidents SIDA , le VIH n'aurait jamais été isolé et la cause première dans les pays du Nord serait les drogues prises par les homos masculins (9 sidaïques sur 10 sont des homos mâles) pour se dilater l'anus dans leur pratique sexuelle .

diseases, syphilis and yaws in particular, all these diseases finally greatly reduced by antibiotics for some and by antivirals when they were finally developed for the other, to the point that each time we have unfortunately witnessed a strong relaxation of prophylactic methods which are very effective in all these cases when used, especially in the same environments.
It should be noted that in France, for shameful political and financial reasons

The absurd idea was disseminated among all French doctors: that at the onset of AIDS, biologically, nothing happened, and therefore, costly early treatment was unnecessary (resulting in enormous savings). This continued until a brilliant team in the USA demonstrated that, on the contrary, the immune system of the infected body tries very early to fight the virus, but unfortunately, it is an unequal battle where the immune system systematically loses all its fighting power, thus allowing the development of numerous infections identical to those observed in leukemia, radiation victims, etc. The immediate conclusion was that, as with all infections, effective early treatments give infected patients a very high chance of survival. From then on, infected individuals were treated as early as possible. This is particularly important for a pregnant woman with AIDS and her newborn… as well as for a pregnant woman with syphilis and her newborn.
